

ABSTRACT

A method and apparatus for preventing contamination in a lithographic apparatus including a projection system, including providing the lithographic apparatus including the projection system for imaging an irradiated portion of a mask onto a target portion of a 5 substrate and placing a pellicle over a surface of the projection system to inhibit contamination of the surface.